1340.3R

FOREWORD

The appendix of this order contains a current listing of all FAA headquarters internal recurring reports. The reports are listed in straight numeric sequence, and numerically by the office of primary interest. The catalog shows the title of the report, the format in which it is prepared, the makers and receivers, and the directive or document that prescribes the necessity for the report.

The order also defines the kinds of reports contained in the catalog and the types of reports not included.

Michael D. Sherwin
Director of Management Systems

CHAPTER 1. GENERAL

1-1 PURPOSE

This catalog is issued by the Office of Management Systems as an inventory of the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) headquarters internal recurring reports.

1-2 DISTRIBUTION

The order is distributed to the division level in Washington, and the branch level in the regions and centers, and limited distribution to field offices and facilities.

1-3 CANCELLATION

Order 1340.3P, Catalog of Recurring Reports for FAA Headquarters, dated December 31, 1987, is canceled.

1-4 EXPLANATION OF CHANGES

- a. The catalog has been updated to reflect changes, deletions, and additions since December 1987.
- b. Due to reorganizations, the office of primary interest for many reports has changed.
- c. The reports identification symbol (RIS) numbering system has been changed. The new system eliminates the office designator and starts only with the letters RIS. The new RIS numbering system will be set up like this: RIS/four digit subject classification code/sequential number. A sample would be RIS: 8320-21.
- d. The layout of the catalog has been changed. The reports will be listed in Part I in straight numerical sequence, and in Part II by OPI.

1-5 DEFINITIONS

a. Report. Data or information collected by one organization from another to be used in determining policy; planning, controlling, and evaluating operations and performance; making administrative determinations; establishing and maintaining official records; or preparing other reports. The data or information may be in narrative, statistical, graphic, or any other form and may be displayed on paper, magnetic tape, or other media.

b. Recurring Report. Any information collection activity conducted and submitted at regular intervals or upon the occurrence and recurrence of events with specified characteristics (e.g., "as required" reports).

c. Washington Headquarters Report. An information collection activity initiated by the offices or services.

d. Reports Identification Symbol (RIS). A group of letters and numbers which identifies an approved internal recurring report.

e. Interagency Report. A report required of a Government agency by another Government agency.

f. Issued Report. A report that is prepared and released by an organization from data available within its own office. This report is for information purposes only and does not require a reply. Issued reports are not covered under the Reports Management System and therefore are not listed in this catalog.

g. One-Time Report. Information collected one time as opposed to a recurring report.

1-6 REPORTS COVERED

The catalog contains all FAA headquarters internal recurring reports assigned a reports identification symbol (RIS) prior to February 1, 1990.

1-7 REPORTS NOT COVERED

Certain types of reports do not require clearance under the Reports Management System and, thus, are not included in the order. Reports not covered include:

a. Documentary, scientific, or research and development reports on a particular scientific problem or program are not covered unless such reports solicit information from the public. If information is gathered from the public, that information collection (report) is subject to the provisions of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 and requires OMB approval. However, it is not included in this catalog.

b. Individual reports from people designated to conduct management studies and surveys.

c. Project reports and status reports prepared by a branch or division to the service director in headquarters.

d. Formal reports of findings, recommendations, or actions prepared by ad hoc committees, survey teams, or boards appointed to inquire into and report on a special matter.

e. Issued reports.

f. One-time reports.

1-8 DESCRIPTION OF CATALOG

The catalog is appendix 1 to this order. The detailed portion of the catalog includes the following parts:

a. Part I, FAA Headquarters Recurring Reports—Internal, in straight numeric sequence.

b. Part II, FAA Headquarters Recurring Report—Internal, Numerically by OPI. In the listing by OPI, the offices and services will be listed alphabetically and the reports will be listed sequentially within each office or service. Any report identification symbol flagged by an asterisk indicates that it is one of a related system of reports. A report so flagged may be found in Part IV(a), Cross-Reference to Related Reports, which shows the other reports related to it.

c. Part III lists reports required by other Government agencies and other external offices.

d. Part IV contains the following listings:

- (a) Cross-Reference to Related Reports
- (b) Reports Added Since Last Issue
- (c) Reports Deleted Since Last Issue

1-9 ABBREVIATIONS

Abbreviations shown for reporting frequency are:

A	Annually
M	Monthly
AR	As required or irregular
Q	Quarterly
BE	Biennially
SA	Semiannually
BM	Bimonthly
TY	Three times a year
BW	Biweekly
D	Daily
TE	Triennially
W	Weekly

1-10 ACTIONS TO BE TAKEN

a. Only those reports which have been assigned an RIS are approved internal reports. If an organization receives a request for information which should be included in the reports system according to FAA Order 1340.1C, Reports Management System, but does not have an RIS, that organization does not have to respond to that request and should, instead, notify the originating office and AMS-410 of the violation.

b. Each office and service should check the catalog for the FAA reports originating in its office. Any corrections should be forwarded to the Office of Management Systems (Attention: AMS-410) to maintain a current listing of reports for future updates.

c. Offices and services should continually review their respective reports using the agency standards for reports evaluation shown in Order 1340.1C, Reports Management System. Emphasis should be given to those reports required from the regions, centers, and field offices. Reports which are not essential for headquarters organizations to carry out their staff function should be canceled. Reporting frequency is another area which should be subject to critical review. Appropriate action by offices and services is essential to minimize the cost and person-hours devoted in the field and Washington to prepare and process reports, and to ensure that information actually needed is obtained in the most effective and economical manner.

d. The regions and field offices should review the catalog and make note of all reporting requirements for which they are responsible to respond.
